Kellie—

I agree completely with Karin.

In addition, I thought it was great that you were very clear up front that this dialogue was to facilitate everyone submitting their own comments. You anticipated that folks could incorrectly think that you were collecting comments and made it clear that it was their responsibility. I really appreciated that.

Thanks again for your excellent work today.

Rosemarie

Kellie – you did a wonderful job facilitating today’s discussion. You set the stage by explaining the purpose of the dialogue and defining your role as facilitator; you shared up front your desire to hear others; you expressed your readiness to share your own views, but acknowledged your intent to not dominate (and you certainly succeeded there); you validated opinions and observations that were shared; and you allowed for quiet moments.

Thank you so much for volunteering to facilitate today’s brownbag. I believe that one outcome from the session will be that those who might not otherwise have commented on the Draft Plan, will now consider doing so.

Have a great weekend,
Karin
